

KAUFFMAN STADIUM

Kansas City Royals
Strobe-Brik installation
2009

For more than 35 years Kauffman Stadium has been one of the best ballparks in baseball. In an effort to maintain its status as one of the best stadiums in the big leagues, the Royals announced in 2007 that they would embark on a two year, $256 million renovation to Kauffman Stadium.

The most apparent change was the replacement of the original crown scoreboard in centerfield with a new 150' by 40' high definition video/scoreboard. Atop the scoreboard punctuating the iconic Royals Crown are 256 Birket Xenon strobes, controlled by eight Brik-32S strobe controllers.
